Make lifestyle Discovery

Full of style but only four remain

GREAT design and affordability have enticed buyers to snap up three-bedroom apartments at Frasers Property Australia's Discovery Point, with only four remaining.

All offer spectacular views from the Icon and Marq buildings, the final two buildings under construction in the masterplanned community. All four apartments will be ready to move into this year, so new buyers will soon be able to call Discovery Point home.

The three-bedroom apartments not only feature great design but appeal to a mix of buyers including empty-nesters, families and couples who want a low-maintenance lifestyle coupled with a full range of amenities at their doorstep, with easy access to the city via the onsite train station.

Philip Anderson visited the Discovery Point sales office and was drawn to plans for a three-bedroom apartment in Icon, the final - and tallest - building in the community. Icon reached the topping off stage recently, marking the building's highest structural point.

"We decided to look at Discovery Point because of the location. It is close to the train station and three or four stops to the city," Philip said

"I like high-rise living. A view is very important to me. The property I chose is on the 16th floor. It is high enough to feel like you are out of the rat-race and it will have views of the park and out to the city."

He was impressed by the layout of the apartment, especially the location of the master bedroom, which is separated from the other two bedrooms, giving it the feeling of a private retreat and allowing him personal space when friends and family come to stay.

His apartment's enclosed balcony, or "winter garden", has one side of glass and louvres and can be accessed from both the living area and master bedroom.

Dino Carulli, Sales and Marketing Director, Frasers Property Australia, says the smart, space-enhancing design of the three-bedroom apartments offer more room to relax and entertain.

"These three-bedders can accommodate a large family for gatherings but are also low-maintenance for people to really enjoy the onsite shopping and dining hubs and amenities, such as the parks, barbecue areas, swimming pools and gyms," Mr Carulli said.

Prices range from $1,150,000 to $1,335,000.
